

Always Be Advocating

OPRA exists to build and serve a community of great providers. Great providers are always advocating – for the people they support, the frontline professionals doing the work, the services and funding that make support possible. That’s why Advocacy is a core part of how OPRA does its work through CARE: Community. Advocacy. Resources. Experiences.

WHY OPRA? ADVOCACY.

Legislative updates, grassroots campaigns, and expert representation ensure your voice is amplified and your interests are championed at every level of policymaking. Providers cannot simply brace for change; we must help drive it. When providers join OPRA, their real-world experience helps shape policy, not just respond to it.

Experience OPRA’s Advocacy: Before You Decide

During the month of March, prospective members are invited to join Friday Five Calls with no membership commitment required. Contact Sonya Summers to participate.

“You are a provider resource network, but you really do put providers as the center and focus on all initiatives. You take the provider perspective into consideration in all your advocacy but are also honest in what is reasonable to ask for or may happen.” - OPRA member
